68 SO	4. On the initiative of a parliamentary group or the Government, the Board of Spokesmen may resolve, for reasons of urgency and subject to unanimity, to include certain business on the agenda that has not yet fulfilled the due procedures.	Inclusion of urgent business

Section 68

32, 23 SO	1. The agenda of a plenary sitting maybe altered by a resolution of the full House upon the Speaker's proposal or at the request of two parliamentary groups or one-fifth of the Members of the House.	Changes in agenda of full House
40 SO	2. The agenda of a committee may be altered by decision of the committee, upon the proposal of its Chairman or at the request of two parliamentary groups or one fifth of the members sitting on the committee.	Changes in a committees agenda
67 SO	3. In both cases, whenever the inclusion of an item of business is suggested, it must have fulfilled the proper formalities enabling it to be included.

CHAPTER III

Debates

Section 69

Prior distribution of papers relating to subject matter	No debate may start without prior distribution to all members entitled to attend the plenary sitting or the committee meeting, as the case may be, at least forty-eight hours in advance, of the report, opinion or documents which is to serve as the basis of such debate, unless otherwise resolved by the Bureau of the House or of the committee, with proper justification.	6 SO
---	---	------

Section 70

Right to speak Conditions and limitations	1. No member may speak without having requested and obtained the right to do so from the Chair. If a member called upon to speak is found not to be present, he shall be deemed to have waived his right to take the floor.	32, 80 SO
Speeches to be personal	2. Speeches shall be made personally and aloud. The speaker may address the House from the rostrum or from his seat.	55 SO
No interruption allowed	3. No-one may be interrupted while speaking except by the Chair to advise him or her that his or her time has run out, to call him or her order, to withdraw the right to speak or to call to order the House or any member thereof, or the public.	32 SO 102 SO 103, 104 SO
Passing the floor to other members	4. Members who have asked for the floor to like effect may assign to each other their turn to speak. Subject to prior notice to the Chair and for a specific case, any member entitled to speak may be replaced by another member of the same parliamentary group.	40 SO
Members of Government may speak at any time	5. Members of the Government may take the floor whenever they request, without prejudice to the powers vested in the Chair for the organisation of debates.	110, 39, 73, 118 SO
32, 102 SO	6. Once the time allocated to a member has run out, the Chair after having twice called upon him to conclude, shall withdraw from him the right to address the House.	Withdrawal of floor after time has elapsed

Section 71

63, 103 SO	1. When in the course of a debate allusions are made which, in the opinion of the Chair, entail value judgments or inaccuracies concerning the person or conduct of a Member, the person referred to may be granted the floor for a period of time not exceeding three minutes during which, without going into the substance of the question under debate, he or she may strictly reply to the references made. If the member oversteps this allocation of time, the Speaker shall immediately withdraw his or her right to continue speaking.	Personal allusion to Members
------------	---	------------------------------

62 SO	2. Allusions may only be responded to in the same sitting or in the next.	Reply
32, 63, 103 SO	3. If the allusion affects the decorum or dignity of a parliamentary group, the Chair may grant the floor to a representative thereof for the same time and subject to the same conditions as laid down in paragraphs 1 and 2 hereof.	Allusions affecting the decorum of the House
Section 72
9 C, 32 SO	1. At any stage in the debate a member may call for the observance of the Standing Orders. To this end, he shall quote the section or sections the application of which he demands. No debate whatsoever shall be allowed in this connection and the decision adopted by the Chair in view of the allegation so made shall be accepted.	Points of order. Calls for the observance of Rules
	2. Any Member may also request, during the discussion or before a vote is taken, the reading of such rules or documents as he or she may deem conducive to the clarification of the matter at issue. The Chair may reject any such readings which it deems irrelevant or unnecessary.	Request to read out legal provisions or documents
Reply and rectification to previous arguments	1. In all debates a speaker whose arguments are contradicted by another speaker or speakers shall be entitled to reply or rectify, once only, for a maximum time of five minutes.	118, 183, 184, 188, 195 SO
Arrangement of debate and voting by Speaker unaffected by these provisions	2. The application of these Rules to any debate shall be deemed to be without prejudice to the powers of the Chair to conduct the debate and the voting, upon consultation with the Board of Spokesmen, and, assessing the importance thereof, to increase or reduce the number and duration of the opportunities to speak granted to parliamentary groups or members, as well as to accumulate, taking into account circumstances of groups and subject-matters, all those allocations of time to which, in a given matter, any single parliamentary group may be entitled.	70, 118, 103, 192, 195 SO
One turn for, one turn against, in every debate	In the absence of a specific provision, it shall be understood that in any debate a speech for and a speech against shall be allowed. The time allotted to any speaker in a discussion of any matter or question, unless otherwise herein provided, shall not exceed ten minutes.	112, 126, 122, 131, 150, 151, 161, 168 SO
Section 75
Speeches of the Mixed Group	1. Speeches of the Mixed Group may be made by a single member and for the same length of time as other parliamentary groups, on condition that all members thereof so agree and convey to the Speaker of Congress, through their spokesmen or the member deputising for him, the decision so adopted.	169 SO
	2. Failing such agreement, no member belonging to the Mixed Group may speak, during the time allotted to parliamentary groups, for more than one-third of the total time allocated to each parliamentary group, and no more than three such members may speak. If the allocation of time resulting from the division of the total by three does not equal or exceed five minutes, then the time allocated shall be one-half instead of one-third, and the number of members entitled to speak shall be two instead of three.	25, 27, 29 SO
	3. If there is disagreement as to who is to speak, the Chair shall decide on the spot on the basis of actual differences of position, and may refuse to grant any allocation of time to members of such group.

4. In all general allocations of time to parliamentary groups, the Mixed Group shall be the first to speak.

Section 76

31, 32 SO

The closure of a debate at any time may be decided by the Chair in agreement with the Bureau when it considers that a matter has been sufficiently debated. It may also so decide upon request by the spokesman of a parliamentary group. With respect to the request for closure, one speech for and one against, each for a maximum of five minutes, may be allowed.

Section 77

30, 41 SO

If the Speaker, the Deputy Speaker or the Secretaries of the House, or the Chairman, Vice-Chairmen or Secretaries of a Committee, wish to take part in the debate, they shall leave their seat on the Bureau and shall not resume it until the discussion of the matter concerned has concluded.

Speaker, Chairman or other members of Bureau taking part in House debates

CHAPTER IV

Voting

Section 78

Quorum of Attendance

1. For the passage of resolutions, the full House and its bodies shall be assembled in accordance with these Standing Orders and with the attendance of the majority of their members.

79 C
79 SO

Postponement of voting if there is no quorum

2. If at voting time, or after a vote has been taken, it is found that the quorum referred to in the preceding paragraph is not present, the voting shall be postponed for a maximum period of two hours. If after the lapse of this time it again proves impossible for a vote to be validly taken, the matter shall be referred to the decision of the appropriate body at its next sitting.

Section 79 (modified by the Plenary Sitting on July 21th, 2011)

Majority requirements for validity of decisions

1. In order to be valid, resolutions must be carried by a single majority of members of the appropriate body in attendance, without prejudice to special majorities provided for in the Constitution, Organic Acts or these Standing Orders.

79 C
79 SO

Vote to be personal. No delegation

2. A Member's vote is personal and may not be delegated. No Member may vote on resolutions affecting his status as such.

67 C, 79 C

No interruptions in voting

3. Members of the Chamber expressly authorized by the Bureau to participate in a vote, even if absent, will be counted as present.

70, 55 SO

Section 80

Voting may not be interrupted for any reason whatsoever. During the course of the voting, the Speaker shall not grant the floor and no member may enter or leave the House.

Section 81

Fixing of voting time

In the cases considered herein, and in such other cases as, due to their special nature or importance, the Speaker may so decide, votes shall be taken at a fixed time previously announced by the Speaker. If at the time appointed the debate has not concluded, the Speaker shall appoint a new time for voting.

131, 169 SO

Section 82 (modified by the Plenary Sitting on July 21th, 2011)

Voting may be:

- i) By assent to the Speaker's proposal.
- ii) Ordinary.
- iii) Public, by roll call.
- iv) Secret.

Forms of voting

2. In the event of pregnancy, maternity, paternity or serious sickness preventing a Member of Parliament from carrying out his or her functions and considered sufficiently justified taking into account the special circumstances, the Bureau may authorize in a motivated document the Member to cast his or her vote through the telematic procedure with identity verification, in plenary sessions, in a voting, that cannot be subject to fragmentation or modification, and which will be foreseeable in respect to the manner and moment when it will take place.

For such purpose, the Member will issue the due application by means of a document addressed to the Bureau, which will inform him or her of its decision, specifying, if necessary, the voting and time period he or she will be allowed to cast the vote through this procedure. The vote casted through this procedure will have to be personally verified by means of a system established to this end by the Bureau and held by the Presidency of the Chamber prior to the beginning of the voting.

Section 83

82 SO

The proposal made by the Speaker shall be deemed adopted by assent if, when put to the House, no objection or opposition is raised.

Proposal accepted by assent

Section 84

82 SO

Ordinary voting may be conducted, at the discretion of the Speaker, in either of the following ways:

Different ways of ordinary voting

34, 23 SO

1. By those in favour standing up first, those against next and lastly those who abstain. The Speaker shall order the Secretaries to count the votes if he is in any doubt as to the outcome, or if, even after the result has been announced, any parliamentary group so requests.

87 SO

2. By an electronic process recording each member's vote, and the total result of the voting.

Section 85

82 SO

1. Voting shall be public by roll call or secret when so required by these Standing Orders, or when requested by two parliamentary groups or one-fifth of Members of the House or the committee's members. In the event that more than one request is made, to opposite effects, the request for a secret ballot shall prevail. In no case shall voting be secret on legislative procedure or in those cases in which resolutions must be passed according to the principle of weighted voting.

Public voting by roll call.
Secret voting

23 SO

Public vote for investiture of Prime Minister, for censure and for confidence

2. Voting on investiture of the Prime Minister, motions of censure and questions of confidence shall in all cases be public by roll call.

	Section 86
Procedure in public vote by roll call	In public voting by roll call, the Secretary shall call upon Members by name and they shall reply “yes”, “no” or abstention. The call shall be made in alphabetical order of first surnames, beginning with a member whose name is drawn by lot. The Government and the Bureau shall vote last.	34 SO 39, 30 SO
	Section 87
Secret vote and forms thereof	1. A secret ballot shall be held: i) By an electronic process recording the total outcome of the voting, but omitting the identity of voters. ii) By ballot papers when the election of persons is involved, when so decided by the Speaker and when this form of voting has been specified in the request for a secret ballot.	89 SO 80 C 84, 85 SO 169, 204, 205, 206 SO
	2. To carry out the voting referred to in subparagraph 2 of preceding subsection, members shall be called by name to the table at which the Bureau sits to put their ballot paper into the appropriate box.
	Section 88
Ties in votes at plenary sittings	1. If any voting results in a tie, a second vote shall be taken, and if the tie is repeated, the voting shall be suspended for such period as the Speaker may deem reasonable. Once this period has elapsed, the vote shall be repeated and if a tie again occurs, the report, article, amendment, dissenting opinion or proposal in question shall be deemed to have been rejected.	37, 204 SO
39 SO	2. In committee votes, no tie shall be deemed to exist when there is a possibility of breaking the tie by allowing for the number of votes represented by each group in the full House, provided all members of the committee belonging to the same parliamentary group have voted in the same way.	Ties in voting at committees
	1. Once a vote or a series of votes on the same question has been taken, each parliamentary group shall be allocated a maximum time of five minutes in which to explain its vote.	Explanations of vote
118, 156 SO	2. In the case of public bills, private members’ bills and international treaties or agreements, vote may only be explained after the conclusion of the voting, unless this has been divided into clearly differentiated parts for the purpose of the debate, in which case the explanation may be given after the last vote on each part. In the cases considered in this paragraph, the Chair may extend the time allocation to ten minutes.	Explanations of vote on bills and international treaties
87 SO	3. No explanation of vote shall be allowed if the voting has been secret or if all the parliamentary groups have had the opportunity to take part in the preceding debate.	Cases in which no explanation of vote is allowed
39 SO	Nevertheless, in the latter case, a parliamentary group that has taken part in the debate and as a consequence thereof has changed its vote, shall be entitled to explain the change.

CHAPTER V

194 SO

2. Priority in the entry of interpellations in the agenda shall be given to those lodged by members of parliamentary groups or parliamentary groups themselves who, in the session in question, have not taken full advantage of the quota consisting of one interpellation for every ten members or fraction thereof belonging to a group. In addition to this criterion, the order in which interpellations were tabled shall also be considered. No agenda may contain more than one interpellation by the same parliamentary group.

Priority

Conversion of interpellation into a question for written

3. Upon the closure of a session, any outstanding interpellations shall be dealt with as questions for written reply to be answered before the beginning of the next session, unless the interpellating answer member or parliamentary group indicates his or its wish to hold over the interpellation until the next session.

Section 183

Debate on interpellation

1. Interpellations shall be dealt within plenary sitting, an opportunity being given to the interpellant to explain the same, to the Cabinet to reply, and to each party to rejoin. Initial speeches may not exceed ten minutes nor rejoinders five.

73 SO

Right to speak of each parliamentary group

2. Following speeches by the interpellant and by the person who is to reply, a representative of each parliamentary group, except for the group moving the interpellation may speak for five minutes to make known the group's position.

3. The Bureau shall examine the document and shall admit the question if it conforms to the provisions of this Chapter.

Examination by Bureau

Section 187

Unless otherwise stated, it shall be deemed that the person submitting the question requests a written answer, and if an oral reply is requested and nothing further is specified, it shall be deemed that such reply is to be given in the appropriate committee.

Types of questions

Section 188

Questions for oral reply in plenary sitting

1. When an oral reply in a plenary sitting is sought, the text requesting the same may concisely and precisely set forth a single question inquiring as to a certain fact, situation or item of information, whether the Government has taken or is going to take certain action in connection with a given matter, or whether the Government is going to forward any document to the Congress or inform it on any point. Notices containing such questions shall be submitted in advance within the term appointed by the Bureau, which shall in no case be more than one week nor less than forty-eight hours.

2. Questions shall be included in the agenda with priority being

Priority criteria	given to those raised by Members who have not yet submitted questions on the floor of the House in the same session. Without prejudice to this criterion, the Speaker, in consultation with the Board of Spokesmen, shall specify the number of questions to be placed on the agenda of each plenary sitting, and the criterion for distribution among members of each parliamentary group.	67, 113, 182, 194 SO
-------------------	---	----------------------

Procedure	3. In the debate, after the question has been put concisely by the Member, the Government shall reply thereto. The Member may then rejoin or ask a further question, and following the Government's further reply the debate shall conclude. The time shall be allocated by the Speaker between the Members concerned, but in no case may the consideration of the question exceed five minutes. When the time allocated to any Member has run out, the Speaker shall automatically grant the floor to the next person entitled to speak, or pass on to the next question.	73 SO
-----------	---	-------

4. The Government may, on reasonable grounds, request at any time, and once only with respect to each question, that it be deferred to the agenda of the next plenary sitting. Subject to this exception, any questions presented and not included on the agenda, as well as those included and not considered, must be repeated for them to be maintained until the next plenary sitting.

Section 189

1. Questions with respect to which an oral answer in committee is sought may be entered in the agenda after seven days have elapsed from their publication.

2. They shall be dealt with in accordance with subsection 3 of the preceding section, except that ten minutes shall be allotted for speakers to rise and reply to questions, and five minutes for their respective rejoinders. Questions may be answered by Secretaries of State and Under-Secretaries.

Procedure

3. At the end of a session, any outstanding questions shall be considered as questions for written reply to be answered prior to the beginning of the next session.

Conversion of outstanding questions into question for written reply

Section 190

1. Written reply to questions must be given within twenty days following their publication, a term which may be extended, upon a reasoned request from the Government and by resolution of the Bureau, for an additional period of up to twenty days.

Questions for written reply. Answers

2. If Government fails to submit a reply within this period, the Speaker, at the request of the questioner, shall cause the question to be entered in the agenda of the next meeting of the appropriate committee, where it shall be treated as an oral question. This decision shall be notified to the Government.

Conversion into oral question to be answered in Committee

Parliamentary groups

1. Upon conclusion of the debate, a period of thirty minutes shall be allowed in which parliamentary groups may table draft resolutions to the Bureau. The Bureau shall admit all such motions as are consistent with the subject under debate.

110 SO

Limits to motions
for resolution

2. Proposals so admitted may be defended for a maximum of five minutes. The Speaker may allocate the same amount of time for opposition after the defence of each motion.

3. Draft resolutions shall be voted upon in the order of their tabling, except for those which entail total rejection of the contents of the Government's communication, which shall be voted upon in the first place.

CHAPTER II

Examination of programmes and plans submitted by the Government

Section 198

1. If the Government submits a programme or plan requiring a decision by Congress, the Bureau shall cause it be referred to the appropriate committee.

Reference by Bureau to appropriate committee

2. The bureau of the committee shall make arrangements for consideration of such programme and shall allocate time thereto. The committee shall designate, where applicable, a reporting sub-committee to study the programme or plan in question. The debate in committee shall conform to the preceding Chapter, provided however that the term for submission of motions for resolution shall be three days, if the Bureau of Congress has decided that such motions shall be debated on the floor of the House.
